A Trip to Vancouver, B.C.

A few weeks ago, I had some visitors from Orlando. Two of my co-workers, Katie Croft and Bryn Gunning, came for a visit to Seattle. We spent a few days in the city and then I drove them across the border to Vancouver, B.C. so that they could gather a story for our upcoming July/August issue.

The story features the ministry of DRIME, a drama outreach on the streets of Vancouver. Volunteers with DRIME practice during the week and then on the weekends, they perform an evangelistic drama on street corners. During the performance, other volunteers ask spectators if they understand what is going on. It is a great way to transition into telling people about Jesus.

The subject of the story is a woman named Laura. Laura is studying to become a counselor but her nights and weekends are consumed with DRIME. During the course of gathering the story, Bryn challenged Laura to invite some of her counseling peers to a DRIME performance. Although Laura was hesitant at first, she stepped out in faith and did so. It was really encouraging to see how God is using Laura and the others to reach people in Vancouver.

On a personal note, the last few months in Seattle have been difficult for me with the constant rain and dreariness. I love it here but while on a recent trip to Orlando, I realized that I have been missing the sunshine. With some advice from my roommate, I'm now taking Vitamin D. And in fact, as I write this letter, it is sunny out today in Seattle! Yay! But I would sure appreciate your prayers for more sunny days ☺

As always, thank you so much for your continued generosity and prayers. I so greatly appreciate them. I pray that God continues to bless you. Take care!

Until all have heard,
Christy

Katie (left), Bryn (middle) and I spent a morning walking through Stanley Park in Vancouver. We thought it would be fun to take a picture jumping in the pouring rain. Haha ☺

Please pray for ...

- Laura and the ministry of DRIME in Vancouver
- Sunny days in Seattle ☺
- More to come into a relationship with God
- Wisdom as I manage *Worldwide Challenge
