No Ordinary Joe

In our March/April issue, we feature the story of Joe B. Stewart and his trip with Athletes in Action to Rwanda. Joe is a junior-college basketball coach that volunteers with AIA. He and 40 other volunteers from the United States and Canada spent a couple of weeks in Africa teaching basketball training camps and sharing the gospel with those they encountered.

The country of Rwanda is still recovering from the national genocide in 1994. During one of the basketball camps, Joe met a young boy named Dusabe whose noticeable scars brought the tragedy front and center.

The opportunity to travel with AIA opens unique doors for volunteers like Joe. "To go so far from home," he says, "and have basketball be the key that turns the lock and opens up people's hearts and minds to what I have to share—it is truly amazing."

The last day of the camp, Joe shared his story. He skillfully weaved together the message of salvation with his story of coming to know Jesus. Joe challenged the group of Rwandan coaches to trust Jesus and 40 indicated that they made decisions to do so!

Will you pray for Joe and the country of Rwanda?

In April, I will be coming to West Virginia for a few weeks for a support trip. Due to the current economic state and some lost support, I need to raise $350/month in new support. Would you pray for the Lord's provision during my trip? Thank you! As always, thank you so much for your continued generosity and prayers. I so greatly appreciate them. I pray that God continues to bless you. Take care!
